

Three power words.

Saying those 3 words “I Love You” and cuddling up to share a book doesn’t just feel good — it does good. Young children who receive nurturing care develop stronger, bigger brains that help them read and learn once they start school.

